

Transformation issues and racism drive negative coverage

Coverage on the University of Cape Town is still dominantly shaped by the protests that erupted in March this year, as students fought to have the statue of Cecil Rhodes removed. The University of Stellenbosch has been battling issues of racism, while Free State was lauded for sports achievements.